FOREWARNED IS FOREARMED!

Beware of the illegitimate trucker, the coal bootlegger, who is nothing more or less than a receiver of stolen goods, a racketeer in disguise. Avoid, too, the cut-price artist and the product he peddles on account of the undermining influence he exerts on the community.

This community's chief industry is mining, and its present and future economic security are largely dependent upon the support it gives the legitimate or recognized coal producer. Moreover, the community's greatest buying power is directly traceable to the recognized coal producer. Why isn't it, therefore, the most sensible thing in the world to patronize the greatest source of buying power in the community?

Buying bootleg and cut-price coals breeds the elements of doubt and suspicion; but the purchasing of a quality coal, like Jeddo-Highland, always engenders a feeling of confidence. The coal bootlegger and the cut-price artist, usually fly-by-night affairs, guarantee nothing. As a matter of fact, bootleg coal is nonunion coal; its low price is only possible because it is produced at wages less than the union scale. The legitimate producer, on the other hand, pays the union scale and guarantees everything because of his policy to sell satisfaction year after year.

Jeddo-Highland actually offers and guarantees you a coal that is extremely high in heat units, surprisingly low in ash, remarkably uniform in quality and preparation at a fair market price consistent, of course, with its present high standards. Ask for Jeddo-Highland by name and insist upon receiving one certification stamp for each ton delivered—your guarantee, your protection that you are receiving a full dollar's worth of fuel value.
