QUESTION 6

X is short story by H. G. Wells and one of his best known ones. It was first published in the April 1904 issue of The Strand Magazine and included in a 1911 collection of Wells’ short stories. The plot involves a mountaineer named Nuñez, who slips and falls down the far side of a mountain. He discovers a society cut off from the rest of the world, the fabled X. Once he determines that the entire society is afflicted with a particular disease, he becomes convinced that he can rule them and repeats to himself the refrain, Y. However, his efforts fail as his would be subjects simply do not understand what makes him superior.

What’s the refrain Y?
\[ X = \textit{The Country of the Blind} \]

\[ Y = \text{“In the country of the blind, the one-eyed man is king”} \]
David Cameron made an interesting speech in response to reports that a senior Russian official at the G20 summit in St Petersburg had belittled Britain's importance in the world after the decision not to intervene in Syria. Excerpts from the speech: “Yes we are a small island, in fact a small group of islands, but I would challenge anyone to come up with a country with a prouder history, with a bigger heart, with a greater resilience. As I said, this is a country that cleared the European continent of fascism, that took slavery off the high seas, we’re a country that’s invented many of the things that are most worthwhile, everything from the industrial revolution to the television to the world wide web. Our music delights and amuses millions, … we’ve invented most of the sports the world likes playing ...” It’s being called his___ ______ moment. FIB.
