RULE CHANGES FOR 1940

Four changes have been written into the college football rules for 1940, and two old regulations are clarified.

To encourage short forward passes behind the line of scrimmage, the penalty for the forward pass striking an ineligible player, on or behind the line of scrimmage, is now merely loss of the down. However, if the passer, trapped and striving to save himself from being thrown for a loss, throws the ball and it touches an ineligible receiver behind the line, the penalty is loss of down and fifteen yards, as in the case of an intentionally grounded pass. Penalty for a pass touching an ineligible receiver beyond the scrimmage line remains the same: fifteen yards and loss of the down.

Penalty for roughing a passer is now enforced from the point of the previous down.

A team is now allowed only twenty-five seconds to put the ball in play. This time was formerly thirty seconds, and the reduction may cause many teams to abandon the huddle system.

Points of the conic cleats, on players' shoes, must now be three-eighths of an inch instead of one-half inch and the point head must be parallel with the base.

In one rule which was clarified, the officials are now put on their guard to determine if a free ball is intentionally kicked. In another, it is made clear that on kicks behind the line of scrimmage, protection is given the kicker only when it is "reasonably obvious" that he is going to kick. This especially applies to quick kicks made close behind the line of scrimmage.
