

Death Penalty:

Deterrent? or Murder?

The death penalty debate has heated up in recent years. In 2000, a major issue of the presidential campaign was George Bush's execution of over 130 individuals as governor of Texas. Illinois Governor Ryan recently called for a moratorium and a sweeping review of executions in his own state after several death-row inmates were found to be innocent. And now, legislation is before the Pennsylvania legislature regarding a similar moratorium. Join us as we debate the death penalty in a polite and open forum.

Monday, 29 April
5:00, UC Peter/McKenna

Join Amnesty International,
the Progressive Student Alliance, and the College Republicans in a debate

Paid for in part by your activities fee